

A Bit About Us

Wolfe's Neck Farm is a farm-based educational nonprofit dedicated to promoting sustainable agriculture, food systems education, and outdoor recreation. As a working farm within a unique mix of ecosystems, we offer a remarkable and inspiring place for visitors of all ages to learn and play.

Our Weekend Programs

Wolfe's Neck Farm weekend programs are an opportunity to connect visitors with our farm-based educational programs and help them around the barn. Our programs include haywagon rides, tours of our agricultural activities, and introductory programs for kiddos and their families.

What Weekend Educators Do

Weekend Educators are the face of Wolfe's Neck Farm on the weekends. They lead haywagon tours (yes, that means driving the tractor), chat with visitors and help them understand what they're seeing, run our farm stand, and, generally, facilitate a deeper connection to our unique farm and sustainable agriculture. Visitors have to pay for some programs, so our Weekend Educators also check pre-registration lists, process payments (cash and electronic), and help visitors know we offer informational tours and programs. March and April weekends tend to be based around lambing season and October weekends include our pumpkin hayrides and amped up farmstand.

What We're Looking for From You

With over 30,000 visitors to our campground each year, Weekend Educators play an important role in keeping the public and our livestock safe and happy. We're looking for folks who are excited to introduce lots of people to the farm, our livestock, and sustainable agriculture—even the 67th time you've answered the same question that day. Weekend Educators "hold down the farm" on the weekends, so you've got to be self-motivated, self-sufficient, very reliable, and not easily flustered. For example, some visitors are not familiar with our safety guidelines (and fail to read our prominently posted reminders), and ideal candidates adeptly reinforce guidelines in a friendly (and still firm) way. There will be a schedule of programs, and you've got to have the time management skills to get them started on-time and run them as long as advertised. We're also looking for candidates with these kinds of qualifications:

- Degree, some higher education, and/or experience in environmental education, childhood education/development, agriculture, food systems, or related fields
- Ability to work and problem-solve independently as well as collaboratively
- Desire to be outside in a variety of weather, interact with livestock, and introduce thousands of people to small-scale agriculture and Wolfe's Neck Farm
- Ability to safely operate a tractor
- Ability to efficiently and graciously manage a cash register, card swiping system, inventory, and customers
- CPR and First Aid certifications

To Apply

Please submit our online Seasonal Employment Application along with your resume and a cover letter explaining why you'd be a fantastic Weekend Educator. Our Seasonal Employment Application can be found on our website. If you can't upload your cover letter and resume with the Seasonal Employment Application, you can email them to Kari Jenkins, our Youth and Family Programs Manager, at education@wolfesneckfarm.org. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis until we fill the position.